

TickCheck uses qPCR-based DNA testing to determine whether a tick carries the bacteria that cause Lyme disease and over a dozen additional tick-borne diseases (including anaplasma, babesia, ehrlichia, tularemia, Borrelia miyamotoi infections, Southern Tick-Associated Rash Illness, and Rocky Mountain spotted fever). By testing the tick that bit you, you can determine your risk of exposure to these diseases.

Tick Testing Order Form

What can we test for?

We test any species of tick including deer ticks, dog ticks, and lone star ticks. We can test ticks of any life stage, alive or dead. After removing the tick, place it in a sealed bag and mail it with this form to our laboratory.

We can test multiple ticks of the same species (up to 5) removed from the same host at the same time. Please note that when multiple ticks are tested together, results are for the combined sample. Therefore, for any positive result(s), we would not know which tick it came from. If you want separate results for each tick, please place multiple orders using multiple copies of this form.
